WiMAX Forum™

- The WiMAX Forum, founded in April 2001, brings together leaders in the communications and computing industries to drive a common platform for the global deployment of IP-based broadband wireless services.
- The WiMAX Forum will certify broadband wireless access products for conformance and interoperability
 - For IEEE 802.16, ETSI HiperMAN and other interoperable standards

WiMAX Forum Vision

- Create a global mass market for deployments of broadband wireless networks that will enable fixed, portable and mobile users to maintain high-speed connectivity wherever they go.
- Lead “access anywhere” revolution supporting delivery of data, voice & video applications at home, in the office and on the go.

WiMAX as a Global Standard Unprecedented Global Cooperation!

- After more than 4 years of global industry collaboration, the base standard – IEEE 802.16-2004 – is stable and the WiMAX Forum* Certification lab is open for business!
- Amendment for mobile enhancements – 802.16e – is expected to be ratified by the IEEE Standards Association this month!
- Unanimous support from Korea's leading operators & telecom equipment manufacturers for WiMAX
 - Expectation that products sold as part of the Korea WiBRO service model will be WiMAX Forum Certified*
- Formalized relationship with ETSI
 - ETSI contributing its radio & testing expertise to ensure harmonization of conformance specifications for wireless MAN technology based on the IEEE 802.16-2004 & ETSI BRAN HiperMAN standards
- Liaisons being established with IETF and 3GPPx

What does the Forum certify?

- Equipment designed for System Profiles is certified for conformance & interoperability
- Certification profiles based upon member surveys
 - Most common profiles are certified first
 - Each profile requires significant investment for test development, lab setup & maintenance
- Certification profiles defined by
 - Frequency (e.g., 3.5 GHz, 5.8 GHz, etc.)
 - Duplexing (TDD or FDD)
 - Channel bandwidths (3.5 MHz, 7 MHz, 10 MHz, etc.)
- 3.5 GHz system profiles scheduled for 1st wave of certification

NWG Charter

Establish a Network Architecture framework for WiMAX ecosystem

- Deliver end-to-end network specifications for WiMAX networks supporting fixed, portable and mobile usage consistent with next generation network architectures
- Develop a flexible all-IP architecture framework that supports economies of scale & interoperability leading to lower CapEx/OpEx compared to traditional wide-area wireless networks
- Membership (as of August 2005):
 - 135 companies
 - 782 individuals registered (active or observer status)

Key Architecture Tenets

- Flexible all-IP architecture framework
 - Support evolution of usage and deployment models
- Based on end-to-end functional decomposition
 - Can accommodate a number of different WiMAX access network topologies
 - Interoperability based on reference points not interfaces or network entities
- Operator-type agnostic access service network architecture
 - Based on IEEE 802.16 and IETF protocols and procedures
 - Consistent subscriber reference point independent of access network topologies
- Loosely-coupled, all-IP Interworking in overlay deployment scenarios

Status Update

- SPWG (Service Provider WG) finalizing Stage 1 Requirements document
- NWG working on Stage 2 architecture framework document
 - Expects to be ready to ballot by mid-September
- Ready to start Stage 3 document
 - Detailed protocols and procedures building on Stage 2 primitives
- Process in place to coordinate with related & dependent efforts
 - Mobility Profiles group in WiMAX Forum
 - IETF, 3GPP, IEEE 802.16
