

ABSTRACT

International Frequency Allocation and Interference Management Systems

This presentation addresses firstly the international frequency allocation system existing in the Radio Regulations (RR), its principles, service definitions, structure and general sharing mechanisms. It then describes the RR provisions dealing with potential interference situations and finally the international monitoring system which could help in dealing with these interference situations.