

Short biography of Ignat Stanev

Education:

Technical University, Sofia, BULGARIA - Engineer in Computers and Doctor in Computer-Aided Design

Professional experience:

From 1971 to 1978 Engineer and Research Associate on Computer Aided Design in the Central Institute for Computers, Sofia.

From 1978 to 2004 Research Associate and Senior Research Associate in the Telecom Research Institute (ISRT) to the Bulgarian Telecom Company. Participation and leadership in many projects in the field of teletraffic engineering and network planning.

From 2005 Assoc. Professor, head of “Telecommunication technologies” department in the Higher College of Telecommunications and Posts, Sofia, Bulgaria. Lecturing on Telecommunications Networks, Telecommunications Protocols, Specialised Telecommunications Software, Basics of Telecommunications.

From 1981 to 1983 participation in ITU project for development of the network planning software PLANITU.

In 1991-94 visits in CNET, Paris, FRANCE TELECOM, on projects connected with the development of tools for planning of National and Intelligent networks.

Form 2000 visiting professor in DTU (Denmark Technical University) on network planning.

From 1984 many missions as ITU expert and lecturer on network planning.

From 2001 Member of the International Advisory Council of the International Teletraffic Congress (ITC) and Chairman of ITC-COM3 Developing Countries Matters, currently Honorary IAC Member.

Publications: Over 100 papers in international and national congresses, magazines, scientific journals.

