

Biography

Nickolay Biryukov graduated from Odessa Telecommunication Institute, took PhD degree in 1988. From 1996 he has been a director of “Transport and access networks” research department of Ukrainian Research Institute of Communications. He has focused his work on R&D, standardization, testing and tutorial aspects in such areas as analogous and digital transmission systems, core transport and access networks, timing and synchronization. The author of more than 50 publications. From 1995 he has been involved in ITU-T SG15 as a representative of State Administration of Communications of Ukraine. He had been the author of more than 10 contributions (on Q11/15, Q13/15) and the editor of revised version of ITU-T Recommendation G.703 (2001).