Bio.

Andrey Koucheryavy graduated from Leningrad University of Telecommunication in 1974. He received Ph.D degree from Central Scientific Research Institute (ZNIIS, Moscow) in 1982 and Dr.S degree from St. Petersburg University of Telecommunication in 1994 respectively. Currently, he is deputy director of institute Giprosvyaz North-West branch (St.Petersburg).

Andrey Koucheryavy was the SG11 ITU-T vice-chairman during 2005-2008 Study period. He was reelected to this position on the WTSA 2008. Andrey Koucheryavy is the Chairmen WP4 SG11 too.

Andrey Koucheryavy is author of 275 scientific papers. He is the author the following books (in Russian): "Intelligent Networks" (1999),"SS№7"(2000), "Public Packet Switched Networks"(2004), "Next Generation Network"(2006), "NGN Testing"(2006), "Public Networks: Development Tendencies and Computation Methods"(2008), "Self-Organizing Networks"(2011).

Andrey Koucheryavy is professor of cathedra "Telecommunication Networks" St. Petersburg University of Telecommunications. He is honorary member of Popov's Society.