Chers collègues régulateurs,

1. ¿Existe en su país alguna regulación acerca de seguridad de datos? Si es así, ¿podría proveer detalles?

2. Si los CDRs (call detail records), la información de identificación del llamante (calling line identification) y el detalle de vistas a Internet son considerados como evidencia judicial.

3. Si es necesario cumplir con algún tipo de regulación acerca del ciclo de vida de la información en el sector de telecomunicaciones.

Saludos,

Dear Mr. Gupta,
I am putting below the relevant excerpts from the License Templates, which I hope would be useful to know the regulations in your Pakistan.

(1) The Authority or other duly authorized authority in Pakistan may direct a Licensee to monitor communication to and from a customer telephone.

(2) The Licensee shall provide to the Authority the information resulting from the monitoring of the communication to and from a customer telephone, including the identification number or details of the party or parties that are the source of harassing, offensive, fraudulent or unlawful communication and the dates of occurrence of such calls and their frequency; and

(3) The Authority may direct the Licensee to undertake appropriate action to protect the public from harassing, offensive, fraudulent or unlawful communication. Such direction may require the Licensee to co-operate fully with and/or provide relevant information to such other parties identified as being competent authorities by the Authority in its direction.

(4) The Licensee shall maintain call records including called and calling numbers, date, duration and time, with regard to the communications made on its Telecommunication System for a period of one year for scrutiny by or as directed by the Authority or by security agencies under the law.
