“Opportunities & Challenges in Home networking”

BIO

Geneva, 13-14 October 2005

Mr Pierre-André Probst
Chair, ITU-T SG 16
OFCOM/ Switzerland

Chair Session: 3: Home Networking Services and Business Models

Mr Pierre-André Probst has been a major contributor to the ITU-T work, starting back in 1970s as a delegate, then WP Chair and Study Group Chairman in the 1993-1996 Study Period. Since 1997 he is the chair of SG 16 where he has helped flourish the multimedia work in ITU—from modems to videoconferencing and VoIP to audio and video coding—and has significantly contributed to the organization of many ITU-T workshops and related events. In parallel with his ITU-T participation, he led a very active professional life at Swisscom with a full range of responsibilities; starting as an Engineer, he retired a few years ago as Member of the Management Board and Executive Vice President for Corporate Operations. Now he acts as independent consultant in the area of ICT.
