LIST OF ITU CARRIER CODES
(ACCORDING TO RECOMMENDATION ITU-T
M.1400 (03/2013))

(POSITION ON 15 SEPTEMBER 2014)

List of ITU Carrier Codes

Note from TSB

1. As the number of telecom operators in each country is growing rapidly, the number of interconnections between their networks is growing even faster. The standardization of designations of all the network interconnections is therefore of great concern for the operators involved. Only then are they able to do the provisioning and maintenance in a systematic and efficient way.
2. The proper use of Recommendation ITU-T M.1400 requires the identification of the operators sharing the interconnection. To that end an overall list of operators working in a country, with an officially recognized and standardized code for each of them, is of great help. It enables them to identify each other in a comprehensive and unique way. This will eventually result in one integrated database for all connections, in turn improving network operations and administration to the benefit of both providers and clients.
3. Due to liberalization of telecommunications and increased competition in the telecommunications industry, there is a mandatory requirement that telecommunications operators that interoperate be identified. A centralized List of ITU Carrier Codes (ICCs) has been created with the ITU/TSB as the repository. All domestic and international carriers are expected to register with ITU/TSB for a carrier code. Instead of individual operators sending their ICCs to the TSB for registration, the national regulatory authorities are requested to provide the validated codes, and related information concerning international and domestic network operators directly to the TSB by using the ICC notification form available online at: <http://www.itu.int/en/ITU-T/inr/forms/Pages/carrier.aspx>.
4. The ICC list identifies Operators that are recognized by each Member State's Administration. Such a list is provided on the central ITU ICC website at www.itu.int/ITU-T/inr/icc/index.html. The ICCs may be used both for electronic commerce between operators and for designation of resources in their networks. Hence, ICCs can be assigned both to network operators and to service providers.
5. This List of ITU Carrier Codes replaces that published as an Annex to the ITU Operational Bulletin No. 981 of 1.VI.2011. Since then, a number of notifications have been received at TSB and they have been published separately in various issues of the ITU Operational Bulletin. The present list recapitulates all the different amendments that have been published up to Operational Bulletin No. 1060 of 15.IX.2014.
6. This List will be updated by numbered series of amendments published in the ITU Operational Bulletin. Furthermore, the information contained in this Annex is also available on the ITU web site www.itu.int/itu-t/bulletin/annex.html.
7. Please address any comments, suggestions or new assignment concerning this List to the Director of the TSB:

Notification form for List of ITU Carrier Codes¹

Since 1 January 2004, it has become mandatory for operators utilizing Recommendation ITU-T M.1400 operator ID or ITU Carrier Code (ICC) in the revised Layer 1 structure, to identify route terminations. An ICC is mandatory for interconnections between operators in different countries and different operators in the same country. This code is used in ITU-T M.1400 Layer 1 records to uniquely identify route terminations. It is also used for the purpose of an operator registering its interconnecting operators.

In order to develop a listing of ICCs that may be used to identify the interconnecting operators in ITU-T M.1400 records, as explained in Recommendation ITU-T M.1400, national regulatory authorities are requested to complete the present Notification Form indicating the validated codes and related information for both international and domestic operators. On completion, this Notification Form should be sent directly to TSB at the following address:

Director of TSB
International Telecommunication Union
Place des Nations
