ANNEX 2 to TSB Circular 88

Remarks by administrations

- Note 1) The authorities of Benin do not allow the practice of automatic call-back, but no law has been passed or decision taken on the subject.
- Note 2) There are no specific provisions prohibiting call-back. However, call-back operations have not been challenged by any Canadian telecommunications organization and therefore the regulator, the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission has not been required to make any determination on this matter.
- Note 3) In respect of basic telecommunication services in Colombia that are provided within the framework of WTO, it is required that the routing of long-distance traffic shall be through operators holding a licence for provision of the long-distance telephone service. Deliberate reversal of the true direction of international traffic, i.e. call-back is not permitted.
- Note 4) The provision, commercialization, marketing and use of call-back services is prohibited under Article 35 of the regulations giving effect to the Revised Special Telecommunications Act.
- Note 5) Telecommunication proclamation N 19/1996, a national telecommunication law enacted by parliament prohibits the use of call-back service in Ethiopia.
- Note 6) If more information is needed on the telecommunication legislation in Finland, please contact the Ministry.
- Note 7) In Guatemala, any operator wishing to carry international telephone traffic must, before starting operations, be entered in the Telecommunication Register as an international gateway operator, as prescribed in the regulations in force.
- Note 8) The Ministry of Public Management, Home Affairs, Posts and Telecommunications has implemented the following policy-set to regulate the provision of call-back in Japan:
1. Objectives of policy-set
 - the implementation of the relevant decision of the ITU such as the Resolution 29 on the alternative calling procedures of the 2nd World Telecommunication Standardization Conference (WTSC-96) (1996, Geneva);
 - the further promotion of competition and benefits of the consumers of the telecommunication services.
 2. Composition of policy-set
 - The provision of the methods of call-back which seriously degrade the quality and performance of the PSTN, namely, constant calling and answer suppression, has been prohibited. For this purpose, the amendment of the Terms and Conditions of the type I telecommunications carriers have been granted at 24 January 1997 in order to enable them to refuse such usage of their network. The amendment has come into effect at 1 February;
 - At 8 July 1997, the type II telecommunications carriers who are engaged in the provision of call-back were :
 - notified of the relevant ITU Resolutions and the names of countries where the provision of call-back is expressly prohibited;
 - notified that the traffic statistics of their service are going to be subject to the periodic report to the Ministry, to help to watch out for traffic trends and implement the relevant Resolutions in an appropriate manner;

- notified that the Ministry would take all possible measure to stop call-back provider from offering service to the user of the country where the provision of call-back is expressly prohibited, once it detects such operation in the future.
- At 8 July 1997, the Ministry published the relevant ITU Resolutions and the list of countries where the provision of call-back is expressly prohibited. The list will be kept up-to-date on the MPHPT Homepage (<http://www.soumu.go.jp>).

3. Future

Once the ITU finds some method of call-back (other than constant calling and answer suppression) harmful to the network, the implementation of the safeguard measurement which is necessary and reasonable will be considered consequently.

- Note 9) The use of this service is not profitable for Kazakhstan.
- Note 10) A decision on the matter will not be made until a regulatory authority has been created.
- Note 11) At present time, Ministry of Transport and communications prepares a new Law on Telecommunications. This Law will regulate the practice of call-back in the Republic of Lithuania in future.
- Note 12) The use of call-back practices in Malta is still prohibited because of the monopoly the incumbent operator enjoys. However, the situation will be reviewed once the market is fully liberalized, that is, on 1 January 2003.
- Note 13) The call-back phenomenon, if it exists in Mauritania, is not visible for the time being.
- Note 14) According to the rules on the provision of the international long-distance service to be applied by public telecommunication network licensees authorized to provide the service, published in the Diario Oficial de la Federación of 11 December 1999, only public telecommunication network licensees may provide the international long-distance service on condition that they have an international gateway authorized by the Federal Telecommunication Commission. Furthermore, the Federal Telecommunication Act, published in the Diario Oficial de la Federación of 7 June 1995, provides that licences may be awarded only to natural or legal persons of Mexican nationality.
- Note 15) Pending a forthcoming ruling (first half of 2002), which should confirm that call-back services are prohibited in New Caledonia, the local authorities are contemplating the enactment of new regulations reaffirming clearly that the practice is prohibited.
- Note 16) New Zealand welcomes call-back operators into its market as a source of additional competition.
- Note 17) Prohibited. Art. 105. "Reglamento de la Ley No.200".
- Note 18) Under section 82 (8) and section 98 of Act 200, the provision, marketing and use of resale or illegal call diversion services in public telecommunication services, including call-back, is prohibited regardless of where the services are billed.
- Note 19) In Peru, call-back is prohibited, its use being classified as a serious offence. Supreme Decree No. 06-94-TCC of 11 February 1994 issuing the "General Regulations of the Telecommunication Act".
- Note 20) Telecommunications sector is fully liberalized in Portugal; applicable regulation expected to change in near future (to lighter regulation) as a result of implementation of the new telecom regulatory package ('review 99') in EU countries.
- Note 21) Lawfully established companies based in Senegal may be authorized to practice call-back in accordance with the regulation in force.

- Note 22) In October 1996, the Ministry of Information, Technology and Communication informed ITU that the following forms of call-back: 1)- constant calling and 2)-answer suppression are banned in Seychelles.
- Note 23) According to our specific commitments with the WTO, long distance and international traffic must be routed through the operators that are licensed to supply these services. Deliberately reversing the real direction of international traffic is not allowed.
- Note 24) Call-back service is not widely used in Tajikistan. "IP telephony" prevails.
- Note 25) Call-back service, regardless being called by any trade or service names, is not in accordance with the relevant telecommunication laws of Thailand. Thus, it is formally prohibited to engage in such practices in Thailand.
- Note 26) According to the national telecommunication law No.406, which was amended in 2000, Türk Telekomünikasyon A.S. (Türk Telekom) shall carry out telephone services which are provided through telecommunication networks including national and international voice telephony as monopoly until 31 December 2003. However, with the second amending in 2001, Türk Telekom's current monopoly rights over telecommunications infrastructure and fixed voice telephony will expire even prior to the liberalization deadline of 31 December 2003 if and when state ownership in Türk Telekom falls below 50%. Therefore, call-back operation is prohibited in current situation. Turkey has not decided yet whether or not to regulate call-back practices in future.
- Note 27) Small Island Countries faced the problem of controlling call-back services due to limitations of equipment. Respective gate-ways providing routing must be requested to assist control this service.

Note by the TSB

1. Several requests have been received in ITU, asking that a distinction should be made between the fixed and mobile telephone numbers. A List of access codes/numbers for mobile networks has been prepared from the information received on the telephone service for publication in the ITU Operational Bulletin. Administrations/ROAs are requested to verify the information in this List and to inform ITU of any modifications that they wish to make.
2. This List of access codes/numbers for mobile networks replaces that published in the ITU Operational Bulletin No. 746 of 15.VIII.2001.
