

Oscar Robles
LACNIC

Oscar Robles is a recognized leading expert on Internet Governance policies, and has spearheaded the creation of regional internet institutions in Latin America and the Caribbean as Chair of LACTLD (he also served as CEO of LACNIC and .LAT). At the same time he served as a member of the Names Council and multiple working committees within ICANN globally, has held the position of Managing Director of NIC Mexico with great success for nearly 20 years, and has been a member of the LACNIC Board of Directors since 2003, a position that will be vacant once he takes over as the new CEO. Oscar is a computer systems engineer with a master's degree in Information Technology Administration, as well as different specialization courses in Business Administration, Leadership and Strategic Planning in Mexico and abroad.