

Biography

Dr. Brahim GHRIBI

Head of Government & Policy Affairs
Middle East & Africa

Nokia

Dr. Brahim Ghrabi has more than 25 years of international work experience and broad multi-disciplinary competencies combining engineering and state of the art technological research, managerial, and business driven responsibilities in North America, Europe, and Africa-Middle-East. He has spent the past 8 years developing and implementing regional government affairs, policy and regulatory strategies in the Africa Middle-East for Alcatel-Lucent, and Nokia.

Prior to his government relations and policy affairs roles, he held various international roles including regional director of strategic marketing, global head of Broadband wireless Integration practice, senior technology architect, and lead expert in the ITU 3GPP standardization working groups, where he contributed to shape some of the key telecommunications standards.

A computer scientist by training with a Bachelor and a Master's degrees from Ottawa University in Canada, Dr. Brahim Ghrabi is also the holder of a Doctorate Degree of Business Administration from the Paris School of Business.