

Ali Al-Toblani

Bio

My Name is Ali Al-Toblani, and I am a University student studying Industrial Engineering at the American University of Bahrain.

I am highly decorated when it comes to both academic and extra-curricular achievements. In University I am considered a public figure, as I am the Vice President of the student council. I am not only considered a student, I am also considered as an asset to both my school and University, due to my continuous achievements as a representative. I believe highly in personal branding and self-development. As I keep growing and achieving, whomever I represent benefits from my growth, as much as I do representing them. I aim to seize every opportunity possible in order to continue my journey of self-development.
