

Nura Qasrawi

Bio

Nura Qasrawi is in her final year at An Najah National University in Palestine studying Computer Engineering. Nura has been debating on the University team for more than two years placing in the finals and semifinals in several Palestinian competitions and was a finalist in the Womxn Herstory debate competition at the University of La Verne California in 2019. Nura has organized, participated in numerous events focusing on empowering women in her home country. She has always been super passionate about politics and debate and never stops talking about it with friends and colleagues. She has always been involved with voluntary work in the youth community. And she is super excited to be part of this event.