

Wisit Atipayakoon

Programme Officer, ITU Regional Office for Asia and the Pacific

Mr. Atipayakoon joined the International Telecommunication Union (ITU) in 2005 as a Telecom/ICT Specialist in the Telecommunication Development Bureau (BDT) based in the ITU Regional Office for Asia and the Pacific, Bangkok, Thailand. He is currently a regional focal point for emergency telecommunications, universal service obligation, rural ICT development, ICT applications, ICT accessibility for Persons with Disabilities.

Bringing with him many years of professional experience in telecommunications, ICTs and project management, he has implemented a number of projects such as: Universal Service Obligation (USO) policy and implementation, ICT application development for rural communities and telecentres, Rural/outer island communications in the Pacific, text-to-speech development, spectrum auction, telecommunications licensing framework, etc.

Prior joining ITU, he worked for Lucent Technologies in Thailand and in Singapore, Global Crossing (Singapore), , and SAS (Thailand) whereas he practised engineering and management in transmission network design and implementation, sub-sea cable networks, data mining and data warehousing, business process reengineering and continuity programme. Wisit received his Bachelor Degree in Computer Engineering from King Mongkut Institute Technology of Ladkrabang in Bangkok, Thailand and is a certified Project Management Professional (PMI/PMP) and a certified SAP consultant.