

Alexander is an expert on international radio spectrum regulations. He holds Ph.D. from Moscow Technical University of Communications and Information since 2002. In 1997-2003 he worked for the Russian Radio Research and Development Institute (NIIR) focusing on spectrum sharing and co-existence issues and representing Russian Federation at international level (in ITU-R and CEPT). Alexander was a leading regulatory expert of the Russian Skylink CDMA-450 mobile operator in 2004-2006 and he joined the European Communications Office (ECO, then ERO) in 2006 where he served as an IMT expert until 2014. Since then Alexander is a senior expert on European Spectrum Policy in Huawei Technologies.