

Miho Naganuma

Manager, NEC Corporation

- Vice Rapporteur of ITU-D Question 3/2
(Securing information and communication networks: Best practices for developing a culture of cybersecurity)
- Rapporteur of ITU-T Q3/17 (Telecommunication security management)

Miho has actively involved in international standards work in many standardization organizations including ITU and ISO, and experts committees/forums/consortiums in over 15 years. She also contributes to the regional standards activity in Asia-Pacific Telecommunity Standardization Program (ASTAP) as the chairman of Expert Group Security.

She had a career as a security consultant focusing on information security management, governance and service management in HP. She also had cybersecurity research experiences and external coordination (public and private coordination) in Japanese managed security service provider (MSSP), LAC Corporation. In 2015, she joined NEC Corporation and currently has responsibilities for standardizations and coordination with international organizations in cybersecurity.