

Disclaimer for the ITU Interactive transmission Map

The designations employed and the presentation of material on this infographic do not imply the expression of any opinion whatsoever on the part of the Secretariat of the ITU concerning the legal status of the country, territory, city or area or its authorities, or concerning the delimitation of its frontiers or boundaries.

The data for building the Maps have been collected through:

Primary sources: Reply to an official request for information \(RFI\) document has been sent to all Regions outlining the purpose of the project for operators, indicating what level of detail is required, and what format the data is to be published.

Secondary sources: On average around 25 – 40% of the data was readily available in the public domain, from operator websites, annual reports, company presentations, and presentations at industry conferences.

Partnership. A number of organizations do already research and produce transmission network maps for particular countries or regions, for various technical reasons. Wherever possible, partnership with these organizations were established, to seek permission to display their network maps work through the ITU world transmission map

The collection of data as well as their validation from Concerned Operators/Administrations is currently a work in progress. The Maps –including any accompanying documentation- are provided “as is” without any warranties of any kind. ITU does not warrant, guarantee or make any representations (implied or expressed) regarding the use, or the results of use, of the Maps, in terms of correctness, completeness, accuracy, adequacy, reliability, merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose. ITU expressly disclaims any liability for errors or omissions in the content of the Maps, and shall not be held liable for any direct, indirect, consequential or incidental damages arising out of the use of or inability to use the Maps.