Trends and opportunities for data-rich smart cities

Presentation Abstract

Despite recent advances in IoT enabled smart cities, several challenges remain to be addressed before realising the vision of cross domain and data-rich smart cities. The presentation will provide an assessment of current IoT-enabled smart cities deployments and suggest priorities for future steps where coordination and collaboration will be key.