

Title: Quantum communication in Russia: status and perspective

Abstract:

We report recent progress in quantum key distribution and related technologies in Russia, providing an overview on major research teams, government and industry involvement, application progress and development directions. These activities will become a foundation for national quantum networks in Russia, ultimately acting as a unifying link between Chinese and European quantum infrastructures.