

Title: The New Accessibility Systems developed and being developed in the W3C

Abstract:

In the context of television and the web converging, W3C standards are becoming increasingly relevant even for traditional broadcasting platforms. This presentation will be a short overview of the W3C standards and guidance making audio-visual media accessible, both current and ongoing work intended for future specifications.