

Abstract

- Despite the phenomenal growth of cloud computing and the increase of advantages that comes with it, several African countries they have not adopted it yet. This presentation gives an overview on the advantages of using this technology, the difficulty and barriers to adopt its in African countries and the potential that African countries have with some example.