

Karan Bhatia

Global Head, Government Affairs & Public Policy, Google

Karan Bhatia leads the global public policy function at Google. In this role, he serves as principal advisor to Google's CEO, board and senior management on policy issues and leads the company's work with policymakers and key political stakeholders in the US and around the world.

Before joining Google in 2018, Bhatia served as President of GE's Government Affairs & Policy function. Earlier in his career, Bhatia served in senior positions in the US Government, his last role was as Deputy U.S. Trade Representative, overseeing U.S. international trade policy with respect to Asia and Africa.

Bhatia has written and spoken widely on international economic policy, taught at Georgetown University Law Center, and testified on many occasions before Congress.

Bhatia holds a bachelor's degree from Princeton, a master's from the London School of Economics, and a law degree from Columbia University. He and his wife Sara have two grown sons.