THE LIGHTHOUSE:

THE NEW INFORMATION CENTRE FOR ITU-T

Need to know about international standardization in information and communication technologies (ICT)?

If you are a journalist, a student, a teacher or an analyst interested in ICT, then the Lighthouse is the new information centre that aims to shed light on the standardization activities of the International Telecommunication Union (ITU), the UN specialized agency for telecommunications.

YOU'LL FIND:

NEWS – regularly updated news on the standardization sector's (ITU-T) activities. In order to stay really up to date, the Lighthouse offers you the option of a news feed to your desktop (RSS), either on general ITU-T news, or specific topics such as NGN, multimedia, events and security.

FEATURES – The Lighthouse carries weightier articles and technical papers from industry experts and ITU insiders.

AN OVERVIEW – in user-friendly language, giving you the essentials of ITU-T and what it does.

STUDY GROUPS AT A GLANCE – in non-technical language, introductions, including key achievements, to the work of the study groups in which ITU's standardization work is done.

FAQs – your questions about ITU-T answered.
